What are the different parts of a VELUX fixed skylight?

Time to take on the different parts of your Fixed Skylight, which looks like this: Now, here's what those numbers mean: Clean, Quiet & Safe Glass: The VELUX Fixed Skylight comes standard with our Clean, Quiet & Safe Glass.

Are fixed skylights better than double pane glass?

Since this glass is thicker than other glass types, it also reduces unwanted noise by up to 25% less than standard double pane glass and up to 50% less than a plastic skylight. Daylight: Fixed skylights offer a great opportunity to incorporate more daylight and sky views into your home.

What are the different types of roof skylights?

Roof skylights come in different types and shapes. Options include tube skylights, or tubular skylights, which are great for small spaces like hallways or closets. These skylights — also called sun tunnels or solar tube skylights — feature rigid or flexible designs with reflective interiors, allowing sunlight to bounce down and into the room.

Are fixed skylights compatible with VELUX blinds?

Daylight: Fixed skylights offer a great opportunity to incorporate more daylight and sky views into your home. They're also compatible with VELUX blinds so you can control the amount of daylight coming in at any time.

Skylight Frame & Flashing: Our Fixed Skylights qualify for our No Leak Warranty, thanks to their frame and VELUX flashing.

Are domed skylights a good choice?

Flat styles sit flush with the roof for a more streamlined look, while the rounded shape of domed skylights protrudes a bit above the roof. Though skylights are an ideal option for brightening otherwise dim spaces, sometimes you may need to control the light coming in. That's where skylight shading comes in.
