Is the residential solar market down?

The residential solar market is down, not out. Our analysis indicates that the market is likely to revert to more stable long-term growth over the next several years on the back of strong fundamentals. Almost certainly, surprises will pop up along the way; the industry is not called the solar coaster for nothing.

How has the residential solar market changed in 2024?

Declines in residential solar markets have been a hit to the industry—but its foundation is strong. Worldwide, 2024 was a difficult year for the residential solar market. After several years of 30 percent annual growth in installations, 2024 saw a decline: fewer panels were installed in many markets, and companies' valuations declined.

What drives the solar panel market growth?

The solar panel market growth is driven by the way the world is progressing towards the use of renewable energy, strong government decarbonization strategies, and mounting innovation in solar panel cost and efficiency.

Will the residential solar market recover this year?

The residential solar market will experience some recovery this year, with 9% growth. The segment experienced significant turmoil last year, with numerous installer and financier bankruptcies. Although interest rates declined, rate cuts occurred later in the year and were not as impactful to financing rates as expected.

How big is the solar power market?

The Solar Power market in the U.S. is projected to grow significantly, reaching an estimated value of USD 103.96 billion by 2032, driven by the need to combat climate change through renewable energy sources reinforced by government tax credit and feed-in-tariff programs.
