Overview

How much oil does Venezuela export a day?

Venezuela's oil exports surpassed 900,000 barrels per day in August, the highest level since November, after energy producer Chevron received a license that has allowed the OPEC country's crude to return to the U.S. market after a four-month pause, shipping data showed.

Where does Venezuela export crude oil?

Most of the remaining crude oil was destined for India, China, and Europe. Venezuela has seven crude oil export loading points, in practice; however, most of its crude oil exports are routed through the Puerto Jose terminal, which is located offshore of the Jose industrial complex in northeastern Venezuela.

Why are Venezuela's crude and fuel exports so high?

Crude and fuel exports from Venezuela reached their highest average since November following a U.S. license granted to producer Chevron and larger cargoes shipped to main customer, China.

Why is Venezuela exporting oil to China?

Notably, a significant portion of Venezuela's exports have been supplied to China as part of its oil-for-loans arrangements, in which China has loaned close to $50 billion to Venezuela in exchange for crude oil deliveries over the last decade.³⁴ Exports to China and other countries were also done as part of sanctions evasions prior to 2023.

How much oil does Venezuela produce in 2023?

Despite the sizeable reserves, Venezuela produced 0.8% of total global crude oil in 2023. Most of Venezuela's proven oil reserves are extra-heavy crude oil from the Orinoco Belt.

How much electricity does Venezuela produce?

According to an official submission made to the United Nations in 2005, its “First National Communication on Climate Change in Venezuela”, the country produced over 60,000 gigawatt-hours of electricity from hydropower in 2001, while fossil fuel-based production reached 28,000 GWh.
